

Recent Publications.

Messrs. Roberts Brothers, Boston, who lately have made a kind of specialty of the publication of valuable religious books, have just issued a new volume of a somewhat noteworthy character. Where is the City? is a rather striking title of this book. It relates the experience of Israel Knight, a young man of devout feelings and Christian aspirations, in quest of the true Church. He goes in succession to the Baptists, the Congregationalists, the Methodists, the Episcopalians, the Quakers, the Swedenborgians, the Spiritualists, the Universalists, and the Unitarians. He mingles with their laymen, talks with their clergymen, sits in their Sunday schools and reads the Bible, and at last he finds the Church of spirit and studies the polity of each. In each he finds something of the truth, of its "sweetness and light," but no one fully meets his soul's requirements. The salient peculiarities of each sect are very well exhibited, its strong points and its weak points well sketched, and with no lack of candor and but very few evidences of prejudice. The picture may be studied with advantage by every denomination with which it deals.

The result of Israel's search after the "City" is the conviction that no church has a monopoly of the truth and none is without error, by that each opens a gate by which man may find the place where the Lord is, provided he is right himself; and he ends his pilgrimage with this resolution: "Henceforth, I will seek to be a disciple of Christ. I shall love all men though they love me not. In whatever place I find a true worker for the good of his fellow men, I will be to him a brother." Where the City is published anonymously, and we have heard various guesses as to its authorship. The Springfield Republican finds "internal evidence" of the hand of Dr. Holmes; but we are unable to perceive any such evi-

Hurd & Houghton, New York, publish Sketch of the Official Life of John A. Andrew, a Governor of Massachusetts, by Albert C. Browne, jr., the Military Secretary of Governor Andrew during the war. The volume comprises an article which appeared in the North American Review for January, 1868 and is now reprinted at the request of many friends of Governor Andrew, together with full copies of correspondence and documents.

ferred to fit the former publication. It is simply what its modest title claims, a "sketch of the official life of the most beloved and honored Massachusetts statesman of our time during that brief but most important period when he was working so indefatigably for his State and his country, and making the best part of that reputation which is to survive him. The full biography of Mr. Andrew is in course of preparation by Mr. Edwin P. Whipple, and will appear in due season; but in the meantime this simple record from the pen of one whose official position necessarily made him tion with the Governor's daily life will be gladly welcomed by the latter's numerous friends and admirers. (Received by Short & Loring—Sheldon & Co., New York, have issued a neat and attractive volume containing Sermons by Rev. Newman Hall, D. D., with a History of Surrey Chapel and its Institutions, by Dr. Hall. The book is inscribed to "The Clergy and Christian People of America," and its contents include several of the addresses delivered by Dr. Hall during his recent visit to this country. The sermons, twenty in number, relate to such topics as The Liberty of Christ, God's Love to Man, The Christian Victory, The Wisdom of the Almighty, Salvation, Victory by Faith, The Dignity of Labor, Home-ward Bound, and so forth. A few hymns and short poems complete the contents of the voluminous work which is adorned with a fine portrait of Dr. Hail. (Received by Short and Loring.)

Haper & Brothers publish in paper cover, price 50 cents—A Lost Name, by J. Sherwin, and LeFauu, the author of "Uncle Silas," "The Tennants of Mallory," etc. It is a story of guile and by love, murder and suicide. (Received by
